

Delegation Spotlight at Convention

on How to Split Votes Delayed Until Tuesday

AND they will sever their nominal allegiance to Rep. John W. Byrnes, under whose favorite son banner they were elected last April.

Their first two sessions will probably be devoted to listening to the two major and serious candidates for the presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. William Scranton. They have been invited to make personal appeals to the delegates and are expected to do so, although last night the delegation had not yet been formally told that they would turn up.

Release Delegates

The impression is growing here that Byrnes will release his delegates to vote their choices readily enough, but that he will ask them to follow his lead on timing.

One reason for delay is that Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, a member of the delegation, is the key man in the drafting of the party platform as chairman of the convention resolutions committee.

Laird has already been widely described as friendly to the Goldwater majority on his committee, and the release of the Wisconsin delegates before the platform draft is reported Tuesday may compromise him since it is likely that a strong majority of the Byrnes delegation will ultimately land in Goldwater's corner.

Kept Secret

Laird has kept secret how he will cast his own vote on the presidential nomination, but it is generally supposed in Wisconsin quarters here that he will be among the Goldwater majority in the delegation. Byrnes is thought likely to support Goldwater, too.

Since the big Ohio delegation succumbed to the Goldwater steam roller, the 30 uncommitted votes of Wisconsin are in the national spotlight.

Rep. Byrnes and most of the Wisconsin delegates and alternates will arrive Saturday night or Sunday.

Johnson Fills 2 Top Federal Agency Jobs

New Chiefs of SEC and IRS Are Up From Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has reached into the ranks to fill top positions in the government's agencies responsible for regulating securities exchanges and collecting taxes.

Manuel F. Cohen, 52, who has worked for the Securities and Exchange Commission for 22 years and has been a commissioner since 1961, was picked as its new chairman by the President. He will replace William L. Cary, who is resigning, probably next month.

Friday Appointment

In another appointment announced by Johnson at a Friday news conference, Bertrand Harding, a 45-year-old Texan who also has 22 years of government experience, was named acting commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service.

Harding succeeds Mortimer M. Caplin, whose resignation announced May 22 became effective Friday. Harding has been deputy IRS commissioner since 1961. Johnson did not say if the appointment would be permanent.

Youth Killed

The violence broke out after a Negro woman knifed a white youth when she was refused admittance to the white section of a theater. Negroes have been sitting in the balcony.

Negroes and white persons tangled over the knifing and Thomas E. Booth, 21, was shot in the abdomen. He was reported in fair condition.

Witnesses said white persons milling around the theater entrance used broomsticks and clubs to force the Negroes away.

A deputy sheriff said a heavy rainstorm broke up the disturbance "just in time." Extra police, deputies and highway patrolmen were called out.

New FBI Office

As FBI Director, J. Edgar Hoover visited Mississippi to dedicate a new FBI office reinforced with more agents for the state, two white men attacked and beat a rabbi and two other white civil rights workers near Hattiesburg.

Police Chief William Marable of Tuscaloosa, Ala., imposed an 8 p.m. curfew on all persons 21 years and younger Friday as a result of an incident at a city theater Thursday night.

An angry mob of white persons stoned the theater while movie actor Jack Palance and his family were inside, believing Palance was being paid by integration groups to attend the theater. Tear gas and fire hoses were used to clear the area.

Discussed for Platform Committee

Candidates' Views Listed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Following is a summary of views expressed by Gov. William W. Scranton and Sen. Barry Goldwater on issues both discussed during their appearances before the Republican Platform Committee in San Francisco.

Civil Rights

Scranton: "With great statesmanship Republican legislators overwhelmingly voted the civil rights bill into law. This law, primarily a Republican accomplishment, should be cited as another step towards America's promise to the world implicit in our Constitution, of equal rights and opportunities for all."

Goldwater: "I cannot for one second conceive why you would hesitate to specifically name the John Birch Society as a prime example of this weird presence in America."

Goldwater: "When we speak of peace today, and the threats to it, we must speak of communism. I was surprised, and am concerned, that during these platform hearings, mention even of the word 'communism' has been the exception rather than the rule. Even in the keynote address it has seemed that the discussion of the grim and hard facts of communism has been taboo."

Extremists

Scranton: "There is the matter of extremist groups and their relationship to the Republican party. The radical extremist groups are alien to our shores. Our platform should say so. Frankly, I cannot for one second conceive why you would hesitate to specifically name the John Birch Society as a prime example of this weird presence in America."

Goldwater: "When we speak of peace today, and the threats to it, we must speak of communism. I was surprised, and am concerned, that during these platform hearings, mention even of the word 'communism' has been the exception rather than the rule. Even in the keynote address it has seemed that the discussion of the grim and hard facts of communism has been taboo."

Backers From Both Sides Report Agreement on First Half of GOP Platform

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Republican platform writers completed the first half of their 1964 campaign document early today. It reportedly was met with satisfaction from supporters of both Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. William W. Scranton.

However, backers of the rival candidates for president predicted a fight later in the day when the 100-man platform committee convenes in closed session again to write the last half of the platform.

Goldwater forces remained in firm control of the committee's backers fighting stubbornly to rescue some of the underdog candidate's planks from the scrap pile.

Closed Doors

Meeting behind closed doors for about five hours, the drafters wrote a statement of belief for Republicans and an indictment of the Democrats.

This was the less controversial half of the document.

The committee arranged to take up recommendations on foreign and domestic affairs. Scranton is pushing for certain provisions in these fields that are unacceptable to the Goldwater forces.

Committee Chairman Melvin Laird of Wisconsin said the text of the completed half of the platform would be issued sometime during the day for release in Sunday morning papers.

General Principles

Apparently the civil rights issue had been injected into a discussion of general principles, which were to be set out at the beginning of the document. Also,

Illinois Woman in Double Jeopardy From License Plates

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—When Miss Edna Lawrence of Belvidere, Ill., received a letter from the Pontiac, Ill., police threatening arrest for failure to pay a parking ticket, she thought something was wrong. She had never been there.

And when a Bloomington, Ill., insurance company called her about a recent traffic accident, she was sure something was wrong. She had been in no mishaps.

The trouble, as she finally learned from state police, was caused by a pair of 1964 Illinois automobile license plates.

John E. Harrison of Wildwood, Ill., who recently received a parking ticket in Pontiac and also was in an accident, had been displaying his plates upside down since last winter.

His number is 666-666; hers is 666-000.

Neutralization Appeal Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department has turned down an appeal signed by some 5,000 college and university professors for neutralization of North and South Viet Nam.

"Under the present circumstances," the department said, "we see no alternative to our policy of assisting South Viet Nam to the maximum to resist Communist aggression."

The educators' appeal was circulated by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Atlanta Paper Claims NFL Cards to Move

ATLANTA (AP)—The owners of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League have decided to move their franchise to Atlanta in 1965, the Atlanta Constitution said in today's editions.

The newspaper said Charles and William Bidwill, who own the team, are expected to sign a contract with the Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium Authority and to make an announcement of the transfer prior to an exhibition game at Atlanta Aug. 15.

The story concurred with one written Friday by Bob Broeg, sports editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which said the Cardinals would move to Atlanta.

Broeg said the Bidwills are expected to announce next week that they are moving to Atlanta. "There's no doubt about it," the Constitution story quoted an unnamed St. Louis source as saying. "The Bidwills are sold on Atlanta as a football city, and they have decided to move the Cardinals there next season."

The Bidwills have made several visits to Atlanta to observe construction of the city's new stadium, which is Arcadia who swam the 100-meter freestyle in 1:00.8, and April. The stadium will seat about 57,000 for football and 50,000 for baseball.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Donna deVarona of Santa Clara, Calif., set a U.S. record of 2:29 in the 200-meter backstroke Friday at the Los Angeles Invitational swimming meet.

She held the former mark of 2:30.4 set last year.

Other U.S. records were set by Sharon Stouder of construction of the city's new stadium, which is Arcadia who swam the 100-meter freestyle in 1:00.8, and April. The stadium will seat about 57,000 for football and 50,000 for baseball.

OSHKOSH — Jeff Rushton of Appleton was crowned the Wisconsin State Junior Boys 16 singles tennis champion Friday, rallying for a 2-6, 6-0, 6-3 win over Jim Friedman of Highland Park, Ill. The Appleton youth also won the state YMCA title last week in Milwaukee.

Rushton was the lone Fox Cities survivor in singles play as Menasha's Kevin Conway was upset in the junior boys 14 finals by Bruce Sauter of Wauwatosa, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Conway was topped in his division and Sauter was fourth seed Rushton had been seeded third in his bracket.

In an all-Fox Cities championship match, Peggy Ploor and Mary Asmuth of Neenah won cross-town rivals Martha Vander Hyden and Alice Kenney of Menasha, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, for the junior girls 16 doubles title.

Ernie Terrell in Knockout Win Over Foster

Heavyweight Contender Seeks 'Bout Every Month'

NEW YORK (AP)—"A fighter must fight to be at his best just like a pianist or a violinist must play to be at his best. I want to keep fighting and I want to fight the best. But if I can't get the best, I'm gonna keep on fighting. You've got to keep in tune."

Heavyweight contender Ernie Terrell of Chicago had just knocked out light heavyweight contender Bob Foster of Washington, D.C., on a controversial finish at 58 seconds of the seventh round of the television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. It was the 26-year-old giant's 11th straight victory.

"I'm gonna keep him busy," said Terrell's manager, Julie Isaacson. "We want Cassius Clay, Sonny Liston or Floyd Patterson, but if we can't get them—and it looks like none of them want Ernie—I'm gonna dig up opponents so he can fight every month. That's what Ernie needs to be ready for any of those so-called hotshots."

"Terrell is nothing," said Foster. "I got pushed down and I beat the count."

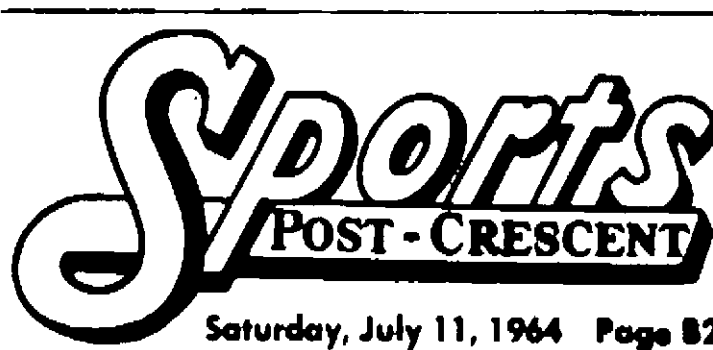

"I got him with a left hook to the jaw," said Terrell, the 125-pounder.

The finish came when Terrell maneuvered his 6-3½ rival to the ropes and pounded him with both hands.

As referee Art Mercante sought to move between them, Foster dipped and his right glove touched the canvas. Then, in a delayed reaction, he reeled to his left and fell sprawling to the canvas.

Other U.S. records were set by Sharon Stouder of construction of the city's new stadium, which is Arcadia who swam the 100-meter freestyle in 1:00.8, and April. The stadium will seat about 57,000 for football and 50,000 for baseball.

Pirates, Friend Trip Braves, 5-1; Losers Slide to Seventh

Bragan Tries Five Pitchers; Cloninger Tagged With Loss

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves' latest hold on a place in the first division has slipped and they were back in seventh place today.

The Braves were defeated 5-1 Friday night by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Milwaukee was held to six singles by Bob Friend, who went the distance in taking his seventh victory against eight defeats.

The defeat was only the fourth in 12 starts for the Braves, who are 10½ games out of first. They had moved into fifth place Thursday night by whipping the Pirates 11-6. Pittsburgh, tied with Cincinnati for third, has won only three of its last eight games.

Friend, who fanned two and walked one, held the Braves to a pair of hits until Frank Bolling singled leading off the sixth. The pinchhitting Ty Cline forced Bolling before Ed Mathews walked and Hank Aaron's single up the middle scored Cline.

Lee Maye, who had hit into an inning-ending doubleplay with two on in the first, forced Aaron to end the sixth inning threat.

Tony Cloninger started for the Braves and was pounded for eight of Pittsburgh's 10 hits and four of their runs before three innings had passed. He departed with his eighth loss against seven victories.

Chu Chi Olivo, Bob Sadowski, Bob Tiefenauer and Billy Hoelt all took a turn for the Braves on the mound. Olivo retired all eight of the Pirates he faced in two and two-thirds innings.

The Pirates started in aery on Cloninger, getting a single, a walk and another single, but no runs, in the first inning. After Roberto Clemente had singled with two away, Willie Stargell walked. Donn Clendenon singled to left.

Rico Carty, Milwaukee's left fielder, saw Stargell take a generous romp past second. Instead of throwing for home to try and get Clemente, Carty pegged to second and Stargell was out trying to get back before Clemente crossed the plate.

More Luck

But there was no more luck for Cloninger, as Bill Mazeroski opened the second with a single and took second on a wild pitch. Jim Pagliaroni singled and Friend singled Mazeroski home. Pagliaroni got home on a double by Bob Bailey and Friend scored on a sacrifice fly.

A walk for Clendenon, and singles by Mazeroski and Gene Alley produced another run before Cloninger was excused in the third. In the seventh, Hoelt walked Bailey and Clemente before he was replaced by Sadowski, who gave up a run-scoring single to Clendenon.

The Pirates and Braves were set to conclude their series this afternoon. Hank Fischer, 6-5, facing Joe Gibbon, 6-2.

Bass, Panfish Best Bets for State Anglers

MADISON (AP)—Most action for Wisconsin fishermen this week will be provided by bass and panfish, the Conservation Department reported Wednesday, adding that anglers must pick the right spots for northern and walleyed pike.

The department's statewide report from wardens indicated low water levels in most Wisconsin lakes and streams.

Wardens from Douglas County said night fishing with hair fly poppers for brown trout was producing good results.

The department said Green Lake is the place to go for white bass, and the best bet for walleyes were Fox Lake, Castle Rock Flowage and Lake Wisconsin.

Open Set Against Waterloo

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Fox Cities Foxes batters, who have been making about as much noise as the Stassen delegation at a Republican convention, will try to regain their touch in a 2-game weekend series against Waterloo.

The Foxes, who were 1-hit by a trio of Dubuque pitchers and lost a 2-4 decision here Friday night, will meet Waterloo at 8 p.m. today and Sunday at Goodland Field.

Stan Walters got the Foxes' only hit — a 1-out bloop single to left field in the ninth inning — last night as the Billy Demara-managed club dipped to a second-round batting average of .149. In second-half Midwest League play, the Foxes have only 18 runs and 47 hits to show for 91 innings of labor.

Only superb pitching and defense have kept the Foxes alive in the second-round race, with a 4-5 record. Such was the case last night as right-hander Tom Zink tossed a neat 4-hitter (with eight strikeouts and only two walks) but this time it all went for naught.

7 Hitless Innings

Dubuque starter and winner Herman Doyle pitched seven hitless innings before his arm tightened up and he was removed by Manager Walt Novick. Up to that point he didn't appear a bit weary after having bowled five games on a local alley in the afternoon. (He walked three and fanned eight). That extra-curricular activity may finally have caught up with him, because he was removed for a pinch batter in the decisive eighth inning.

Right-hander Doyle's win was preserved by southpaw Jamie Pierson and right-hander Rich Stancavage.

Zink pitched brilliantly for seven innings, allowing only two hits and shrugging both of them off — a 1-out double in the fifth and a lead-off triple in the seventh.

But, in the eighth, the scoreless tie was cracked. Third baseman Grogan beat out an infield hit. Don January sacrificed him to second. Doug Crawford batted for Doyle and struck out. Dave Nelson was hit by a pitched ball.

Frank Baker produced his second hit in the ninth.

Doyle Talks to Braves' Officials, Learns Nothing on Rumored Move

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee County Executive John Doyle said Friday night he had talked with a number of people, including Braves president John McHale, "and I can't tell you whether the Braves will be staying in Milwaukee."

Doyle commented after he had shelved a proposal to add 10,500 permanent seats to County Stadium by rejecting a request that $2 million for the project be included in the 1965 budget.

He indicated he might reinstate the request for the funds in the event of assurances from Braves management that the club will remain in Milwaukee. Since another round of reports that the Braves would be in Atlanta for the 1965 season, club officials have said they have no commitment but have declined to say the team will be in Milwaukee next year.

Two Million Expenditure

"Under these circumstances," Doyle said, "I cannot commit this county to a two million expenditure without knowing whether the seats will ever be needed."

In Washington, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said that if the Braves leave Milwaukee it would endanger passage of the bill supported by professional baseball. The bill would give special exemption from the anti-trust laws. It is now before the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

Proxmire said he has written to Ford Frick, baseball commissioner; Warren Giles, National League president; and to the presidents of the 10 National League clubs that he is deeply disturbed about the possibility that the Braves may move to Atlanta.

Set Attendance Records

Proxmire said it was true that last year, with a sixth place team, the Braves lost money, but he noted that in the years after the Braves moved to Milwaukee in 1953 the club set attendance records.

The senator reminded that attendance is up 30 to 40 per cent this year and said the city and county have rallied around the club.

"In the event the Braves do move," Proxmire said, "it is clear that the move will be motivated simply by the fact that more money can be obtained through an advantageous television arrangement in Atlanta."

Special Exemption

"Only the special exemption provided in S2301, which permits territorial monopolistic franchises, would give the Braves this financial incentive to leave Milwaukee."

"Under the circumstances, it

J. Alou, Mays Pace San Francisco Win

Giants Unleash 19 Hits in 10-3 Verdict Over Chicago

BY MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Has Jesus Alou given the San Francisco Giants a sign?

Alou, youngest of the three baseball brothers, became the first National League player to get six hits in a game in more than four seasons Friday as the Giants trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-3.

The victory, coupled with first-place Philadelphia's 5-1 loss to Cincinnati, moved the Giants to within one-half game of the league lead.

Alou, 21-year-old rookie, belted a home run and five singles in six times at bat. The last NL player to get six hits was Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He did it May 13, 1960.

That, in case you've forgotten, is the year the Pirates won the pennant.

More Than Signs

The Giants will need more than signs to win this year, but a few more similar performances from Alou certainly will help the cause.

The right fielder from the Dominican Republic was walloping in the 250s and low 260s before he hit safely against six different Cub pitchers. The spurge rocketed his average 18 points to .280.

"I think once before, a couple of years ago in the minors I got six hits, but I went to bat seven times," Alou remarked. "I hit the ball as hard on my first single as I did on my homer. The other four singles were not hit so good, but a hit is a hit, and I am happy."

The Giants are a little more than pleased themselves.

Elsewhere in the NL, Los Angeles edged Houston 4-3, Pittsburgh dumped Milwaukee 5-1 and St. Louis beat New York 3-1.

Mays Slammed Two

Besides Alou's rampage, Willie Mays slammed two homers, giving him a total of 27. He connected with one on the first, and hit a solo blast in the fourth. Orlando Cepeda contributed a homer, a triple and two

Miss Wright shot successive 71's for a 36-hole total of 112. Miss Smith had a first round 73 and then shot a 70 Friday, low-tied score of the tournament, at 145.

Blonde Miss Jensen had a 73 Friday to remain in contention, also at 145.

Alone at 147 was Marlene Bauer Hagge, who took a 76 Friday after sharing the first round lead with a 71 with Miss Wright and Shirley Englehorn. The 23-year-old Miss Englehorn, with a 78 Friday, trails at 149.

Deadlocked at 150 were Patty Berg, Sandra McClintock and Peggy Wilson, and bracketed at 151 were Sandra Haynie, JoAnn Prentice and Gloria Armstrong.

Top threats for amateur laurels included 15-year-old Susan O'Connor of Coronado, Calif.; Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs and Nancy Roth of Elkhart, Ind. They were tied at 152.

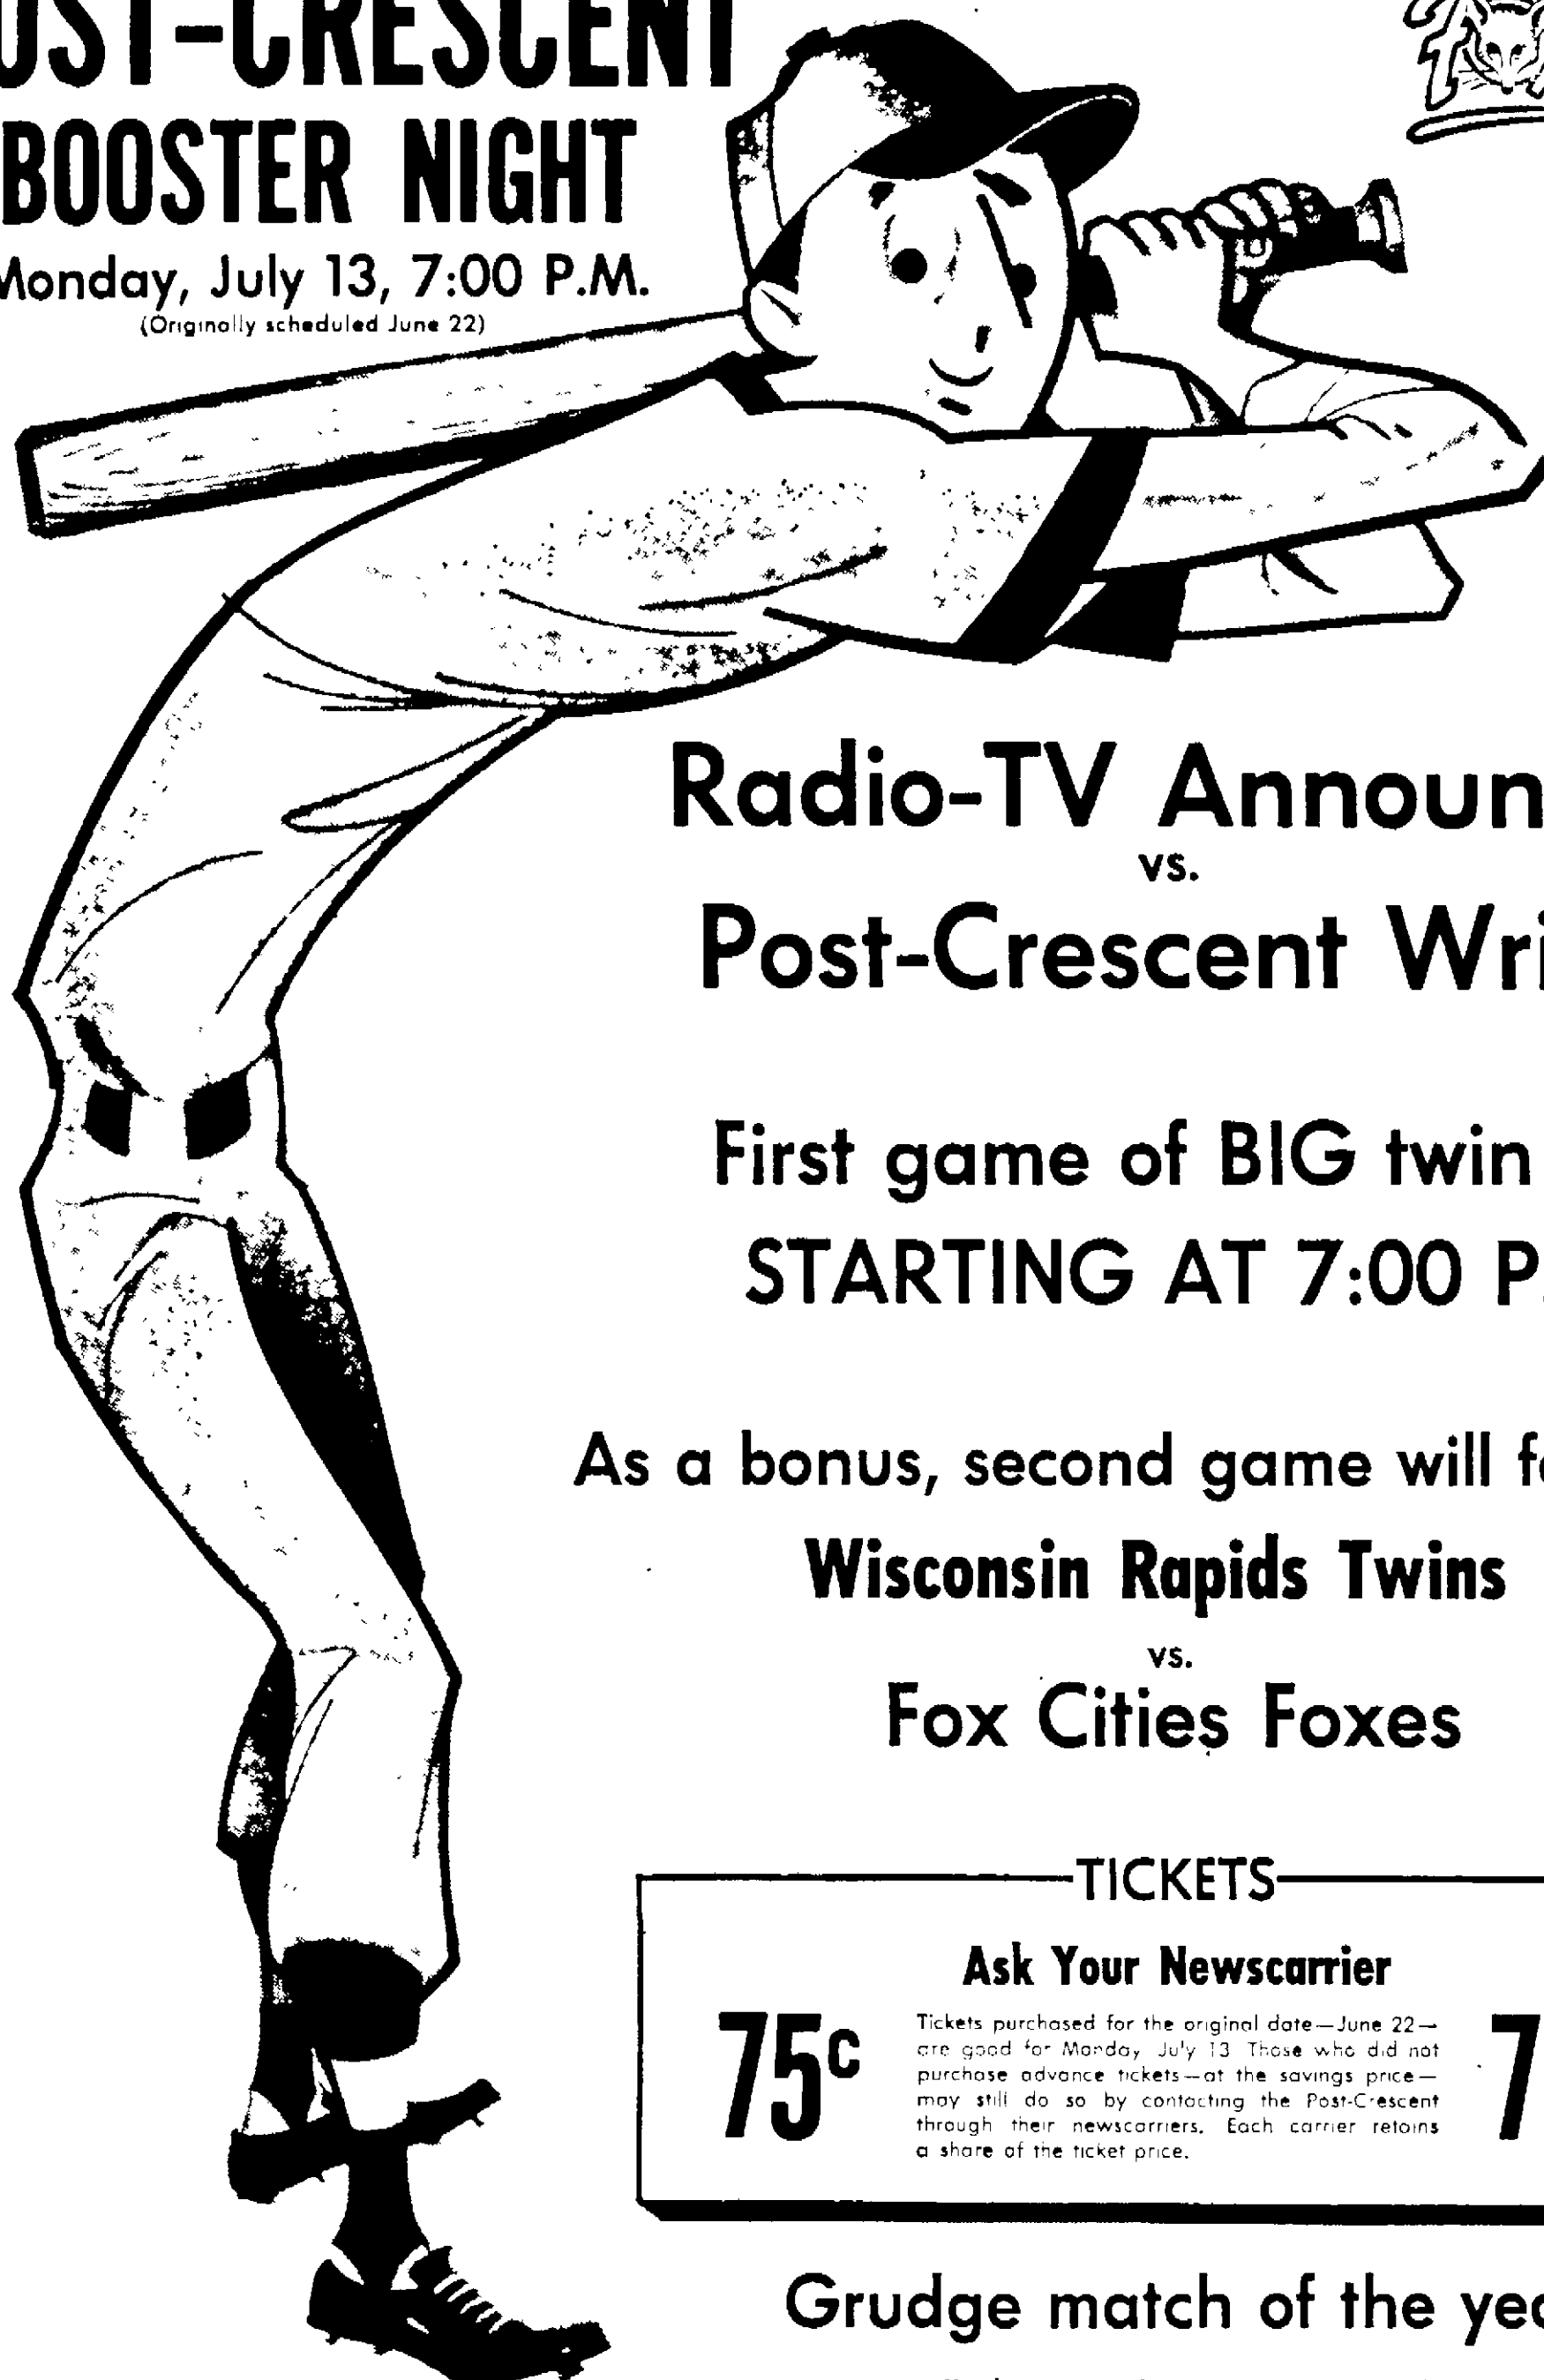

Miss Wright won the U.S. Open in 1958-59 and again in 1961. The 1963 winner, Mary Mills of Gulf Hills, Miss., goes into the finals with 79-75-154.

Grudge match of the year!

Players:

Many of the most "choice" baseball players of both the electronics and printing medias will be selected for the highly-rivaled teams. It could even become evident that some will be selected more for their personal popularity — "on the air", or in the paper — than for their athletic prowess. Nevertheless, each team has vowed to beat the other and thus, once and for all time, establish some kind of supremacy of one source of news and entertainment over the other.

Umpires:

Plans call for the "hiring" of a corps of some of the Fox Cities finest Mayors or Councilmen to act as umpires in the Radio-TV vs. Post-Crescent Booster Night Game, Monday, July 13. Famed for settling matters of arbitration, it is felt that such experienced men of decision will bring a high and dignified atmosphere to the role of umpiring.

While guns, vegetables and other examples of indignation toward members of either team will have to be checked at the boxoffice, hoots, boos, hisses and other expressions of disapproval—inspired before or during the game—will be allowed... if not encouraged.

Advance tickets purchased for June 22 will be honored Monday night.

Pay Television Set for Biggest Test of Its Life

California Voters To Get Chance to Express Views

By CHARLES MAHER
LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you watch television, watch California.

On Friday, July 17, some 8,000 television set owners in a three-square-mile section of West Los Angeles will be able to switch on, for a $1.50 fee, a Los Angeles Dodgers home baseball game with the Chicago Cubs.

It is the start of a well-financed pay-television enterprise which — if it clicks and survives a challenge at the polls and probable court tests — its sponsors hope will be expanded across the nation.

Braves Play

On Aug. 14, the same firm, Subscription Television will inaugurate programming in San Francisco with a Giants home game against the Milwaukee Braves.

Regular sets, not wired for pay-TV, will be unable to tune in. The Dodgers and Giants home games are not seen locally.

For Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, a onetime Madison Avenue advertising man, former president of the National Broadcasting Co., and now president of STV the pay-TV scheme is perhaps the most challenging sales job of his career.

Bucking Vote

For he is trying not only to persuade people to pay to watch the magic box but to vote down in November an initiative that would kill pay-TV in California.

Opponents of the enterprise include theater owners, the California Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Association of Broadcasters and the free-television networks.

STV, a $25-million corporation, hopes to woo support away from these and other opponents by televising: The home games of two of its stockholders—the Dodgers and the Giants; the Bolshoi and Royal ballets, opera, recitals by Van Cliburn, Artur Schnabel and other concert artists; plays such as Sir Laurence Olivier's production of Anton Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya."

No Commercials

All would be uninterrupted by commercials.

Most would be in color. Prices would vary, from about $1.50 for a ball game to single-admission box office prices for other events.

To stimulate subscriptions, STV is offering charter memberships to the first 100,000 at $5 for installation, and is waiving the dollar-a-month service fee. Other will have to pay $10 for installation and the dollar a month.

Cigar Box

In return, subscribers get a cigar box size control mechanism with three STV channels and a hi-fi radio channel hooked into their television set. The box electronically notes which program is being watched and pipes the information back to a central control studio. Once a month the subscriber gets a bill, like his telephone or water bill.

STV estimates that for pay-TV the average family will spend $10 to $15 a month, or about $150 a year. The anti-STV Citizens' Committee for Free TV says most families couldn't afford this.

The November initiative would declare subscription television contrary to public policy and would prohibit charging for television programs transmitted to the home.

Future View

Opponents also say that, "Once the audience is established, the operators of pay-TV will put in a 'limited' number of commercials under the guise that this will make possible better programming."

"Eventually," says LeRoy Collins, former president of the National Association of Broadcasters, "pay television could actually destroy free television as we know it." Collins recently

'Joe Thirsty' Speaks Out

Appletonian Seeks 'Water Plank' In Republican Party Platform

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Delegates from the country's dry belt pressed today for a "water plank" in the 1964 Republican platform.

Joe Thirsty of Appleton, Wis., a delegate to the national GOP convention in San Francisco, unleashed an unmerciful attack on municipal

The Appleton ordinance says residents can sprinkle any time of the day, except between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. three days a week. However, during those hours, residents with odd-numbered house numbers can sprinkle Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; and those with even numbers can on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. There are no Sunday restrictions.

governmental units across the country.

Thirsty charged that many communities, including his own hometown, are infringing on "the God-given and constitutional rights of the people."

Water sprinkling restrictions were the target of his tirade.

Thirsty, who was recently granted a bartender's license by the Appleton City Council but was unable to open his new night spot when last week's rain flooded the basement and main floor, says government has gotten too big.

"It's gotten to the point that government won't let people sprinkle their lawns when they want to," Thirsty exclaimed with a trace of horseiness in his voice.

ly was appointed by President Johnson as director of the Community Relations Service under the new civil rights law.

NBC and The Columbia Broadcasting System have said if they can't meet pay-TV's competition, they'll be forced to join the fold.

STV Stand

STV says it has no intention of putting the networks out of business.

"Commercial television with more than 90 per cent of its time given to series-type programs—will continue to be a major source of 'escape' and entertainment for the public," said an STV ad.

So far, pay television hasn't proved successful. Pay television operations failed in Chicago in 1951, in Palm Springs, Calif. in 1953, and in Bartlesville, Okla. in 1957.

Operating today is a pay-television station near Toronto, Canada, which began in 1961 with 5,000 subscribers and now has 3,500. Another in Hartford, Conn., began in 1962 with 300 customers, now has 5,000.

Thirsty apologized for his raspy tone, explaining that earlier in the day he toured the Schlitz brewery operation in San Francisco.

"I'm for more water... but you can't beat those samples they gave us at the brewery," Thirsty exclaimed as he departed momentarily from his notes.

Getting back to the water restrictions, Thirsty said they represented evil, were the cause of making well-meaning citizens going dishonest and triggered neighborhood break-ups.

"Dishonesty? Why the other night I bumped into my neighbor as he crawled along the grass under a cloak of darkness to turn on the sprinkler," Thirsty told the platform committee.

"We bumped heads out there in the dark and it's a good thing I didn't get a concussion," the Appletonian added.

In reply to a question, Thirsty blushed and explained that he happened to be crawling to his yard hose connection "to make sure it was turned off."

"They talk about odd and even numbered houses being able to have lawn sprinklers turned on at different times," Thirsty shouted. "In my neighborhood the people are changing their house numbers every day!"

"It's starting to raise hell with the mail service because house numbers change overnight," Thirsty complained.

Long-time neighborhood friendships, some extending for generations, are going on the rocks, he claimed.

"And, it's all because these people are calling the cops on each other and turning their neighbors in for sprinkling on the wrong days," Thirsty declared.

He also charged that the sprinkling ordinance in his town was illegal because of the "fine print" which says that sprinkling hours are specified Central Standard Time.

"We've got Daylight Saving Time now and nobody changed the ordinance," Thirsty said gleefully.

Thirsty noted that Appleton was in the process of "hiring a lot of city attorneys" and would wait a few days before flipping a coin to see which one to go to and have the ordinance stricken from the books.

After Thirsty concluded his filibuster, Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, platform committee chairman, suggested that instead of water the group consider a "paint plank."

It went something like this: "Whereas, the Republican Party deplores government intervention in lawn sprinkling activities of American Citizens but realizes that in some areas water shortages exist, therefore be it resolved that the GOP go on record to propose legislation permitting any citizen of the United States to paint spray his lawn green."

Thirsty, also a parttime paint salesman, voted in favor of passage.

Wife Vies With Husband for City Commission Post

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — "You can't tell your husband everything, you know," says Mrs. Patricia Milan.

For instance, she didn't tell him she planned to run against him for a seat on Flint's non-partisan city commission.

To Edward Milan, 40, a jeweler, the news came as a surprise. The couple say they have disagreed about some local political issues.

Milan found out about his wife's plans when he went to the city clerk's office to obtain nomination petitions.

State Delegation Holds Spotlight at GOP Convention

Decision on How to Split Votes
May Be Delayed Until Tuesday

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

SAN FRANCISCO — Enjoying the attention their non-committal attitude is bringing them, Wisconsin delegates to the Republican national convention may wait until Tuesday to decide whether they will board the speeding Goldwater bandwagon.

Budget Deficit May Be Lower Than Expected

Expenditures
Could Be Under
$98 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to announce in a few days that the budget deficit for the recently completed bookkeeping year will be significantly lower than anticipated, it was learned today.

Although the figures for the year which ended June 30 won't be available for about another week, evidence is mounting that the deficit will be less than the $8.8 billion forecast a few weeks ago.

Shaved Expenditures
The administration announced in May that it had shaved its estimated expenditures by $100 million and it placed the figure at $98.3 billion.

Now, there seems little doubt that expenditures will be less than $98 billion—perhaps considerably below that figure.

On the other side of the ledger, the government has been collecting more revenue than expected because of the consistently high level performance by the economy.

Johnson said at a news conference Friday there would be "some good news" soon in regard to the government's financial position.

Political Dividends

Johnson obviously believes there are political dividends in trimming the budget deficit and he has emphasized economy repeatedly to his lieutenants. They apparently have been working hard to cut below the goal set by the President.

Over Hiring Practices

27 Negroes Arrested For Demonstrations

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty-seven Negroes were arrested in Cambridge, Mass., early today during a demonstration on hiring policies at a cafeteria chain.

Five men and two teen-age girls were charged with trespassing by police after they refused to leave the Harvard Square Hayes-Bickford cafeteria when ordered by the manager.

The other Negroes, most of them picketing outside, were arrested for disturbing the peace.

A crowd of about 250 stood by and watched.

One man arrested said the demonstration was sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality.

Friday Night
The demonstration began Friday night. When the cafeteria closed, the group moved to another Hayes-Bickford in Boston's Back Bay until it also closed.

They then moved to a Brookline branch, and when it closed they returned to the Harvard Square cafeteria.

In other racial incidents around the nation:

One white man was shot and two others injured in a theater integration attempt at Lake they will sever their nominal allegiance to Rep. John W. Byrnes, under whose patronage banner they were elected last April.

Their first two sessions will probably be devoted to listening to the two major and serious candidates for the presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. William Scranton. They have been invited to make personal appeals to the delegates and are expected to do so, although last night the delegation had not yet been formally told that they would turn up.

Release Delegates

The impression is growing here that Byrnes will release his delegates to vote their choices readily enough, but that he will ask them to follow his lead on timing.

One reason for delay is that Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, a member of the delegation, is the key man in the drafting of the party platform as chairman of the convention resolutions committee.

Laird has already been widely described as friendly to the Goldwater majority on his committee, and the release of the Wisconsin delegates before the platform draft is reported Tuesday may compromise him since it is likely that a strong majority of the Byrnes delegation will ultimately land in Goldwater's corner.

Kept Secret

Laird has kept secret how he will cast his own vote on the presidential nomination, but it is generally supposed in Wisconsin quarters here that he will be among the Goldwater majority in the delegation. Byrnes is thought likely to support Goldwater, too.

Since the big Ohio delegation succumbed to the Goldwater steam roller, the 30 uncommitted votes of Wisconsin are in the national spotlight.

Rep. Byrnes and most of the Wisconsin delegates and alternates will arrive Saturday night or Sunday.

Four Koreans Killed By Exploding Shell

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A U.S. Army shell exploded Friday and killed four Koreans when it landed in the city of Seoul, an Army spokesman said. One of those killed had been moved to a hospital from a restricted firing range 40 miles north of Seoul and brought it to a village to dismantle.

Friday Appointment

In another appointment announced by Johnson at a Friday news conference, Bertrand Harding, a 45-year-old Texan who also has 22 years of government experience, was named acting commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service.

Harding succeeds Mortimer M. Caplin, whose resignation announced May 22 became effective Friday. Harding has been deputy IRS commissioner since 1961. Johnson did not say if the appointment would be permanent.

Youth Knifed

The violence broke out after a Negro woman knifed a white youth when she was refused admittance to the white section of a theater. Negroes have been sitting in the balcony.

Negroes and white persons tangled over the knifing and Thomas E. Booth, 21, was shot in the abdomen. He was reported in fair condition.

Witnesses said white persons milling around the theater entrance used broomsticks and clubs to force the Negroes away.

A deputy sheriff said a heavy rainstorm broke up the disturbance "just in time." Extra police, deputies and highway patrolmen were called out.

New FBI Office

As FBI Director, J. Edgar Hoover visited Mississippi to dedicate a new FBI office reinforced with more agents for the state, two white men attacked and beat a rabbi and two other white civil rights workers near Hattiesburg.

Police Chief William Marable of Tuscaloosa, Ala., imposed an 8 p.m. curfew on all persons 21 years and younger Friday as a result of an incident at a city theater Thursday night.

An angry mob of white persons stoned the theater while movie actor Jack Palance and his family were inside, believing Palance was being paid by integration groups to attend the theater. Tear gas and fire hoses

Goldwater forces remained in firm control of the committee's backers fighting stubbornly to rescue some of the underdog candidate's planks from the scrap pile.

Closed Doors
Meeting behind closed doors for about five hours, the drafters wrote a statement of belief for Republicans and an indictment of the Democrats.

This was the less controversial half of the document. The committee arranged to take up recommendations on foreign and domestic affairs.

Scranton is pushing for certain provisions in these fields that are unacceptable to the Goldwater forces.

Committee Chairman Melvin Laird of Wisconsin said the text of the completed half of the platform would be issued sometime during the day for release in Sunday morning papers.

General Principles
Apparently the civil rights issue had been injected into a discussion of general principles, which were to be set out at the beginning of the document. Also:

Vote Surplus
Of Goldwater's total—which is 72 votes more than the 655 required for the nomination if he keeps them — 118 are committed by state primary elections. 257 are instructed by GOP state and district conventions, 60 are personally pledged and 291 favor the senator but are not pledged.

All of Pennsylvania Gov. Scranton's votes are favorable, but not pledged or instructed. He also is expected to draw some but not necessarily all— of the 102 votes credited to New York's Gov. Rockefeller and the 45 who favor Lodge, the former ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Goldwater's total could spurt upward early next week as various delegations caucus at San Francisco.

He has, for instance, 15 known first-ballot votes in the Ohio delegation which has been released from its favorite son status by Gov. James A. Rhodes. But there are indications that more Goldwater support will be shown when the Ohio delegation caucuses Monday.

Illinois Woman in Double Jeopardy

From License Plates
ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—When Miss Edna Lawrence of Belvidere, Ill., received a letter from the Pontiac, Ill., police threatening arrest for failure to pay a parking ticket, she thought something was wrong. She had never been there.

And when a Bloomington, Ill., insurance company called her about a recent traffic accident, she was sure something was wrong. She had been in no mishaps.

The trouble, as she finally learned from state police, was caused by a pair of 1964 Illinois automobile license plates.

John E. Harrison of Wildwood, Ill., who recently received a parking ticket in Pontiac and also was in an accident, has been displaying his plates upside down since last winter.

His number is 660-898; hers 868-099.

In another appointment announced by Johnson at a Friday news conference, Bertrand Harding, a 45-year-old Texan who also has 22 years of government experience, was named acting commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service.

liam W. Scranton and Sen. Barry Goldwater on issues both overwhelmingly voted the civil rights bill into law. This law, discussed during their appearances before the Republican Platform Committee in San Francisco.

Extremists

Scranton: "There is the mat- the 1964 act—good as it is. We should not stop with it. We must speak of commu- nism. I was surprised, and am concerned, that during these platform hearings, mention even of the word 'communism' has been the exception rather than law which Goldwater voted the rule. Even in the keynote addresses it has seemed that is the voice of the majority. If I am your president, I will do the discussion of the grim and hard facts of communism has been taboo."

Combined Locks Votes for Utility

Village Asks South Shore Firm Purchase in 382-10 Referendum

COMBINED LOCKS—Village voters in a referendum Tuesday overwhelmingly favored having the village purchase the franchise and assets of South Shore Utility at a price to be set by the Public Service Commission. A total of 393 votes were cast, with 382 favoring the purchase, 10 opposing the move and one ballot declared invalid. A certified copy of the election results will be forwarded to the PSC and a team from that state agency is expected to undertake a study of South Shore assets.

The referendum was held after petitions, signed by nearly 400 residents, asked for action when it was made known the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. was attempting to purchase the South Shore franchise and assets at a cost of $40,000.

Village Franchise

South Shore Utility, owned by Combined Locks Paper Co., has franchise for furnishing electrical power in the village. Actually, the utility serves about 35 customers and purchases its power from the Kaukauna Electric and Water Utility, which also furnishes power in its own right to the eastern portion of the village.

Electrical service to the western half is furnished by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

Village board members said they were interested in obtaining the power franchise to give the village some control over electrical distribution here.

Previously, Kaukauna and Wisconsin Michigan agreed on service boundary lines without consultation with the village board. If successful in securing the franchise, the village will be able to dictate which areas will be serviced by the two other power companies.

Abundance of Water

New London Wells Gush Despite Drought

NEW LONDON — The drought-spawned water shortage griping many communities hasn't been felt here.

With four good wells already in operation, a new well being developed at the end of Douglas Street which may be the best yet, the city has an abundant supply of the refreshing liquid.

Lewis K. Thomas, light and water superintendent, said the last well drilled in 1955 is a 1-1/2 gallon per minute producer while the one tested last week would top this by a large margin.

Thomas said the well topped 1300 gallons a minute, which was the limit of the test pump. He estimated the correct capacity of the well at being between 1,800 and 2,000 gallons per minute.

Plans now are to put a pump with a 1,300 gallon capacity on the well Thomas said the pump in an emergency could be operated 24-hours a day and could produce in the neighborhood of 1,870,000 gallons of water in that time.

Thomas said the well is of the gravel wall type and is only 152 feet deep. He said chemical analysis of the well has not been completed, but he believes the findings will indicate it has top quality water.

He attributes the city's ability to find water to "excellent engineering."

Extensive Report on Appleton Water Plans Will be Ready Soon

An extensive report — complete with recommendations on whether to go to Lake Michigan or Lake Winnebago for water — will be ready for Appleton within a few weeks.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell made the announcement today after he, along with Public Works Director Robert W. Bues, Water Supt. William Gallaher and Water Commission Chairman Robert DeLand returned from Chicago where they met with officials of Consoer, Townsend and Associates Thursday.

In another development, the city council's finance committee met at city hall Thursday night and was informed that the city's hands are virtually tied when it comes to floating a revenue bond issue for a future water expansion project.

The city is considering a multi-million dollar lake-tapping project, complete with pipeline, and hopes to get other communities interested to make it a joint venture.

However, a 1954 revenue bond issue for the water department says no additional bonds can be floated until the first issue is paid up. The 1954 bonds have a 1979 maturity date.

As the situation now stands, Appleton could not finance a lake-tapping project even if it wanted to at this time.

Finance Director Donald Hassler, who earlier in the week contacted Chapman and Cutler Bonding Consultants of Chicago, told the finance committee a bond issue for a lake project could not be issued on a parity with the 1954 issue.

In effect, if bonds were to be floated they would have to be second mortgage bonds and the city would undoubtedly have to pay a high interest, anywhere between 4 and 5 per cent.

One recourse to solve the present dilemma, according to Hassler and the consultants, would be to contact all the bondholders — there are more than 350 in all parts of the country — and attempt to pay them up before maturity.

If this course of action was followed, the city would likely be forced to pay a pre-payment penalty to the bondholders.

Refunding of the present bonds outstanding would have to be voluntary on the part of the holders since they are not subject to redemption prior to maturity.

Chapman and Cutler confirmed a previous opinion that one clause in the 1954 bond issue was binding.

City officials say they don't know how it ever happened to be included in the wording of the bond agreement.

The POWER of FAITH

On track 13 in Grand Central Terminal in New York City every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at noon, people from all walks of life gather in a day coach to worship. For 20 years the leader of these services has been Ralston C. Young, a veteran redcap.

Born in Colon, Panama, Ralston was raised in the Anglican faith of his parents. He came to the United States in 1917 and worked at shipbuilding until the end of World War I. After the war he lost his job and had to take work as a redcap. He was bitter and ashamed of his work, and he drifted from the church.

Ralston says, "I met an elderly Christian lady 20 years ago, who seemed to have what I wanted: peace of mind, tranquility, and buoyancy. She was a witness of her Christian life. Just knowing her made me go back to the church."

After Ralston dedicated his life to God, his job took on a new meaning. "I not only carried the people's bags," he explains, "I could help them carry the things they couldn't get in their bags, such as their sorrow and disappointments. If you love God, you must love people."

New Alarm for English Church

Suspicious of Contacts With Roman Catholics

LONDON (AP)—Is the Church of England becoming too Roman Catholic?

Backers of the old Protestant tradition, which emphasizes preaching above ritual, have been saying so for more than a century. Now, with all the talk about a worldwide ecumenical movement for bringing the churches together, they claim new cause for alarm.

Men still representing the old Puritan tradition in the Church of England are suspicious of these increasing contacts. They deplore what they call the Anglican drift toward Rome and are rallying their members of Parliament for a last-ditch fight in the House of Commons against two bills to change Church of England practices.

Church Position One measure would legalize the use of Mass vestments at the Eucharist service. For many years, some Anglican priests have worn vestments, while others wear only white surplice and stole.

The second measure would permit stone altars, instead of wood, the use of unleavened bread—wafers—at Holy Communion, and increased use of Latin on certain occasions.

Opponents say this represents "a definite drift toward the Roman Catholic form of service." The Church Assembly, which has approved the changes, has attempted to allay opposition with a pamphlet titled, "No Drift to Rome." Only parliamentary approval of the measures is necessary, because the Church of England is the state-established church. It embraces about 27 million members.

Mass Vestments The church's position is that modern architectural usage often dictates the use of stone altars, wafers are more convenient to handle than ordinary bread, and there is no reason to restrict the use of Latin. It is now allowed for public use only at Oxford and Cambridge and the three royal public-private schools—Westminster, Winchester and Eton.

In Britain, only the queen is constitutionally barred from converting to Roman Catholicism. It would cost her the throne.

Roman Catholics claim more than five million members in Britain and Northern Ireland compared with less than four million in 1950.

This is far from the 18th century, when the cry of "No Popery" could bring a London mob running.

Philippine Mission Worker to Speak at Appleton Bible Chapel Cyril H. Brooks, long-time missionary to the Philippine Islands, will speak at the Appleton Bible Chapel, 412 E. Wisconsin Ave., at the 11 a.m. service Sunday.

Brooks, a native of England, became a missionary in 1919. In 1936 he began a weekly radio program over a Manila station. In 1950 it became the Bible School of the Air.

The missionary then began correspondence courses in connection with his programs. Since his inauguration more than 55,000 courses have been completed.

The service is open to the public. Why God and Jesus exist, he maintains. One final suggestion Gronlund offered is to reform services so that different sermons can be given to groups with varying professional backgrounds.

Man to be Ordained As Lutheran Minister

As Lutheran Minister

OSHKOSH — Donald Gauker, the seventh member of First English Lutheran Church here to enter the ministry, will be ordained in a 10 a.m. service Sunday.

The Rev. Edward A. Koch, pastor of the congregation, will perform the rite of ordination. Gauker has been called to serve Grace Lutheran Church, route 1, Marshfield.

Scholarship The future pastor of the American Lutheran Church was baptized in First English Lutheran Church Appleton after graduating from Winneconne High School, he farmed with his parents.

In 1953 he was awarded the Wisconsin University Farm Short Course scholarship by the Winneconne School district. Three years later he enrolled at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

After graduation from St. Olaf he studied at Wartburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Ia. Intern experience was gained at St. Luke Lutheran Church, La Mesa, Calif., and as chaplain at Boy Scout camps for two summers.

Gauker is married to the former Marjorie Clark, daughter of Mrs. Myron L. Clark. They have two children.

Askeaton Church Sets Festivities for Sunday The Rev. Kenneth Rodgers, a former Appleton pastor, has issued an invitation to Fox Cities residents to attend the parish picnic of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Askeaton, Sunday.

Serving begins at 11 a.m. Music will be provided by Roger Harke and his orchestra. Father Rodgers was, during his tenure in Appleton, a director of the fund drive for Xavier High School.

These "mission builders" were part of a group of 30 college students who are spending nine weeks of their summer vacations in church work.

The group working in Appleton, spent their first three-week period in Washburn, Iowa. From here, they will go to Youngstown, Ohio.

Use Ruff Against You For Benefit

If you can't stop a defender from ruffing, arrange matters so that he ruffs a trick you were going to lose anyway. This may be more important than drawing trumps immediately.

South saw the danger of a diamond ruff, but he thought that leading trumps quickly was the best safety measure. He therefore won the first trick in his hand with the king of diamonds in order to lead a trump at once.

This was such a safe play that it cost South his contract. West stepped up with the ace of spades and led the jack of diamonds. Declarer had to play dummy's king, and East ruffed. (If declarer played low from dummy, East would discard and ruff the next diamond.)

Eventually, South led clubs, and West took the ace of clubs and another diamond trick. Down one—at a cold contract.

No hurry

There was no hurry about drawing trumps. The important thing was to win the first diamond trick with dummy's king. If East managed to ruff the next diamond, he would ruff only declarer's loser instead of a top diamond.

Declarer should lead the king of clubs from dummy at the second. 4 D 8, C J 10 8 5 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. You South plays a low diamond from his hand when East ruffs, but your distribution is excellent. Partner guarantees support because West's only entry is the ace of spades. When West gets a good fit in hearts and in with the ace of spades, East clubs

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Saturday, July 11, the 193rd day of 1964. There are 173 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1804, two revolutionary War leaders, Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton met in a pistol duel at Weehawken, N.J. across the Hudson River from New York. Two shots were fired and Hamilton fell, mortally wounded. The duel arose over personal and political differences.

On this date: In 1787, our sixth president, John Quincy Adams, was born. In 1837, American composer George Gershwin died. In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was nominated for president on the first ballot at the Republican convention in Chicago.

Ten years ago — The first Evangelical Church Congress to be held in East Germany ended a four-day meeting in Leipzig after staging pro-Western demonstrations.

Five years ago — Heavy rains in southern Korea ended after creating floods taking 57 lives.

One year ago — The Ecuadorian army ousted President Carlos Arosemena.

Three Important Roles in Attic Theatre's second play of its season, "Bad Seed," are taken by these actors. Twelve-year-old Lise Van Susteren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Van Susteren, Appleton, plays the lead role of Rhoda Penmark. Anne Glasner left, portrays the child's mother and Charles Kolb is seen as the evil and menacing janitor Leroy. The Maxwell Anderson play opens at 8:15 p.m. today in the arena theater of Lawrence Music-Drama Center. It plays through July 19 with the two Sunday performances at 7:15 p.m. and no performance Monday. (Post-Crescent Photo)

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dear Folks

Ever clean out your closet hangers and end up with a big batch of those black wire coat hangers? The kind that just hang there.

Well, some darling named Bobbie wrote and told me that she painted all her wire hangers different colors and hung each person's clothes on different colored hangers as she did her ironing! It gave her a lift, besides her ironed clothes were easier to sort.

She hangs her son's clothes on blue hangers, her daughter's on silver (and, gals, be careful when using silver paint—sometimes it backfires with synthetic clothes), and hangs her own clothes on the black hangers, etc.

This is a great idea and we experimented with it.

Here's the best way we found to paint hangers:

Spend your time, paint and energy on the heaviest of the hangers. Some hangers are made of thinner wire and are cheap. And don't use rusted hangers.

Remove all the tissue paper and cardboard from each hanger. Put them all in a big, cardboard box leaving them slightly apart. Then take your can of spray paint and spray away. We did about 18 at one time. And I used enamel, not flat paint.

When using this method the paint doesn't get all over everything. Most of it will whizz like a tornado inside the box and land BACK on your hangers. Paint saved.

Wonderful!

Don't try to spray all your hangers completely in one minute.

Shoot a few sprays, leave them a while, come back and turn the hangers over and give that can a few more sprays. Leave them alone again and ten minutes later come back, pick up the can and squirt a few more times. Eventually they will be beautiful.

After you have finished painting from any type of fizz, can't allow the remainder of the paint to go dead and let the fizz hole plug up! All you have to do is turn the can upside down (be sure to hold it against a piece of paper as it will spray more paint) and press on the fizz button a few seconds. Spray more paint and press on the fizz button a few seconds. Spray until no more paint comes out. Then put the can away.

Next time you get ready to paint, the fizz should work!

Dear Heloise:

If you have screens that are easily removed.

When cleaning them, if you will wash them, let them dry, then wax with a bug-killing self-polishing wax, they stay clean longer and the wax helps to keep out some of the summer bugs.

Mrs. H. I. Buck, Jr.

I don't know about waxing screens. But it does seem as if the bug stuff is a wonderful idea.

Dear Heloise:

I never miss your column. But I don't believe I have ever seen where anyone ironed plastic. I do.

Sometimes our favorite tablecloth or shower curtain gets stiff as a board when the cool air hits it after washing.

I put the plastic items across the ironing board, cover them with a tea towel—an old sheet is excellent—turn the iron on low and iron them. They are as soft as silk then.

You must be sure the sheet or covering is completely over the plastic article as the iron will make a hole in the plastic if it comes in direct contact.

Your Problems

Mother-Daughter Dance Duo Just Isn't Show Business

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 13 years old with a real horrible problem. If you can solve it you are a genius.

My mother begged me to start tap dancing lessons about eight months ago. I didn't want to. She said dancing lessons would help me get poise. She also promised that if I'd take lessons, she would too, and we'd practice together. It sounded like fun so I said O.K.

Two weeks ago the dancing instructor assigned routines for the yearly recital. She made up a number for my mother and me to do together—in matching costumes. I thought for sure mother would refuse but to my shock she was very excited about it. All of a sudden she thinks she is Eleanor Powell.

I'd rather die than do a dance number in public with my mother. Please help me, Ann Landers. I can't talk her out of it—No Show Girl.

Landers

typist, filing clerk and telephone operator—and it's too much. Some men must conduct their businesses from home but a C.P.A. should not be operating from a back porch if he can afford a downtown office.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman executive (over 30) and considered interesting looking, competent and the independent type. I've let a few good marital prospects get away but, frankly, the number of men who have dropped me first is about three to one.

The man I'm going with now is attractive, moderately successful, has excellent character and wants to marry me. Two problems. One, he talks constantly during movies, plays and concerts. It drives me crazy. Two, he is considerably younger than I am.

Please don't tell me to make this decision by myself. If I could decide by myself I wouldn't be writing to you—Gemma.

Dear Gem: People who have a habit of talking during performances can be silenced with a couple of sentences, so this is no big deal.

The real hooker is how much younger is the man? Your omission of the vital statistic suggests there is quite a gap, and that this is the reason you can't decide. What are the facts, Lady?

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, 'Help For The Alcoholic,' enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I did! It works—thanks Ruth Heloise

Networks Plan Wide Convention Coverage

National GOP Convention to Dominate Airwaves Next Week; Previews Sunday

BY JINGO
Pity the poor television editor! For the last week he—along with his colleagues across the country—has been struggling to keep up with fast-breaking developments in the television industry's efforts to bring every moment of the GOP National Convention to the viewers of America.

But—alas!—even he is the first to admit that his efforts may not have been entirely successful. The real cliff-hanger in the GOP convention drama is Friday night, July 17. Will there be a session that evening or will there not? And if the convention does drag on into Friday, how long will it last? Frankly, nobody knows, not even the GOP.

The Post-Crescent's TV chroniclers compromised by inserting into Sunday's VIEW log a disclaimer, stating that the convention may or may not pre-empt Friday's programming. If the convention closes Thursday evening—and this is entirely probable—and their regularly scheduled programs will be run on July 17. What is known is that the convention will be televised in order at 12 noon Monday, July 13. Various California dignitaries, including San Francisco Mayor Shelley and Sen. Thomas Kuchel, will deliver addresses of welcome, after which the convention will be adjourned until 8 p.m.

All networks will carry Monday evening's session, which includes addresses by Rep. Bob Wilson, chairman of the GOP congressional campaign committee; Mrs. Ely Peterson, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee; Rep. William E. Miller, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Hoover to Speak
A message will be read from Herbert Hoover, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, of Oregon, temporary chairman of the convention, will deliver the keynote address. At 6 p.m. Tuesday the third session will begin with reports from the Committee on Credentials and the Committee on Rules. Following adoption of the platform, there will be addresses by Sen. Thurston B. Morton, permanent chairman; Richard M. Nixon, and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Wednesday Big Night
Wednesday's session begins at 9:30 p.m., and is expected to be the dramatic highlight of the week. Scheduled for this lengthy session are:

Sins of the Past

The City of Appleton is in a real bind because of the stupidity of city officials 10 years ago.

When revenue bonds were sold in 1954 to finance an addition to the city's water department, a clause was included in the bond agreement that no other bonds would be issued until the 1954 bonds were paid up. And to make matters worse, no provision was included for prepayment of that indebtedness. The last of the bonds do not mature for another 15 years.

City officials probably felt 10 years ago that they might get a slightly better interest rate by selling the bonds under these restrictions. But what could possibly have closed their minds to the fact that Appleton might need further expansion of its water plant during the next 25 years? What faith in the future of this community did these gentlemen demonstrate?

Appleton went through a period of extreme conservatism in its fiscal policies about that era. Needed city improvements were put off in order to hold down the tax rates. And now we are paying for that head-in-the-sand attitude. And those delayed improvements plus all the new ones which this community's rapid growth have made necessary are coming all at once.

We are not advocates of spending taxpayers' money willy-nilly. But to hamstring all future city administrations for the sake of a few points off on the interest rate of those bonds was just plain stupid.

The mistakes made in that era must be a perpetual lesson for the future.

Burying the Baker Case

The Senate Rules Committee report on the Bobby Baker investigation was 60 pages long. But it need only have contained a few terse sentences. There was nothing new in the report that had not been discussed for months. Baker was guilty of gross improprieties in his position in the Senate. He was an opportunist. There is nothing that can be done about it.

The Republicans have quite naturally charged that "the full story has not been disclosed concerning Bobby Baker and those associated with him including present and former Senators and Senate employees." And of course this minority report is quite right. But did anyone expect anything else?

The Senate Rules Committee is controlled, like all congressional committees, by the majority Democrats. They certainly are not going to embarrass the head of their party by going into past history and discussing President Johnson's sponsorship of Baker. Certainly they had no plans to call Walter Jenkins, White House aide, to ask him about the charge that he suggested kickbacks to the LBJ television company. They couldn't delve into the alleged involvement of the late Senator Robert Kerr or the present Senator George Smith.

The Russians Want a U.N. Force

The Soviet Union has consistently opposed United Nations forces sent to keep the peace in various parts of the world. Russia has also refused to pay any of the cost of such troops although the International Court of Justice ruled that assessments for such purposes were binding upon U.N. members.

Now Russia has called for the establishment of a permanent U.N. force to send to trouble spots when peace is threatened. Change of heart? It isn't likely.

The Soviet suggestion has come through the Japanese Foreign Ministry via a Russian note delivered there for some inexplicable reason. It proposes that a permanent force be set up composed of Communist and non-Communist troops from all U.N. member nations except the permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Great Britain and Nationalist China. So far, so good. This is similar to proposals made by Canada, the Scandinavian countries and the United States.

But the Russians further say that the Security Council be entrusted with primary responsibility for world peace and that it handle both the dispatch of the force to troubled areas and the power for economic and military sanctions. Here is the not-so-devilish Russian strategy.

Actually the Security Council, through

ers. After all, a primary rule of politics is survival.

There has been influence peddling in politics since governments were created and there probably always will be. But there is a great deal of difference between trying to find a person who knows someone or who has an inside track because of his position to get something done and in making it worth that person's while. There is further a big difference between opening a few doors for friends and in seeking out contacts and deals. It has been the more serious type of involvement by elected and appointed officials in Washington, of both parties, which the investigation refused to handle. And this is nothing less than the whitewash charged by the Republicans.

Americans should not forget the Bobby Baker case. A government which is so used to shrugging off moral standards that it no longer bothers or cares is a government which can be corrupted and one which is a threat to our system of democracy and representative government. All the 60 page reports of words and phrases cannot hide the fact that President Johnson has refused to discuss the activities of his protegee and that efforts to close up the whole matter originated in the White House.

The U.N. Charter, already has the responsibility to keep world peace. But the repeated Russian vetoes on votes in the Security Council made that body virtually impotent. The U.N. was unable to send forces to halt aggression or stop little wars until a strategy was worked out (largely by the late John Foster Dulles) to by-pass the Security Council and take the matters directly to the General Assembly where no veto can hamstring operations. Thus were the troops sent to the Gaza Strip to keep the Israelis and Arabs apart, to the Congo and to Cyprus. Russia opposed the move each time and has paid out not a penny. The U.N. action in Korea did come through Security Council approval but only because the Russian representatives were caught off guard and walked out of the meeting instead of casting a veto. They learned more successful tactics later on.

Observers have speculated that the Russian proposal for a permanent U.N. force may be aimed at halting Chinese aggression in Southeast Asia. This could be. But if such a force once more must rely upon the Security Council, it can be used at the will and whim of the Soviet Union as merely another arm for Russian international skulduggery. Russia would agree to send the force and pay its costs only when such action was to the benefit of the Soviet Union.

21, then Democrat or Republican candidates would also have to be 21. But there is no such stipulation for independent candidates who are permitted on the ballot.

Leonard took out the proper papers and returned them with 892 signatures, almost 200 more than required. Lewis doesn't have his papers back yet but he is running on a platform of abolishing the Governor's Council. His own candidacy, he feels, is an example of the foolishness of such a council, the duties of which ought to be handled by men or women well qualified for the task.

The Massachusetts legislature, apparently concerned that their noble chambers would be taken over for a hootenanny, hastily filed a bill setting a minimum age for state officeholders at 21. But it just may be that some teen age legislators are just what a lot of states, including Massachusetts, may need

U. N. Spent $435 Millions In Congo; Was It Worthwhile?

BY RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"Dr. Livingstone, I presume."

Henry Morton Stanley stood upon the shore of Lake Tanganyika nearly 93 years ago and uttered the famous phrase.

Directly across the lake to the west was a vast, unknown land of mountain, jungle and mighty rivers. It is unknown no longer. It is the Congo.

Stanley roamed the Congo for 20 years. The Belgians ruled it for more than half a century and on June 30, 1960, it became an independent nation. Chaos followed.

The United Nations stepped in almost immediately and for the next four years the Congo was a battleground, nationally and internationally.

Dozens of warring tribes, with no common customs, language or interests, resumed ancient battles for local supremacy. Moïse Tshombe, president of Katanga Province, attempted to secede with his whole province, the richest area of the Congo. He nearly succeeded, but was finally forced to flee into exile in Europe.

ANOTHER KOREA?

The Communist world, intent as usual on profiting from unrest, refused to support the United Nations effort in the Congo. For a time, another Korea or Viet Nam seemed inevitable.

But the United Nations stayed in the Congo, and at one time had 20,000 troops from more than 20 countries committed. In four years, 126 men of the U.N. force were killed in action. Not the least of these was Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, killed in a plane crash in September 1961, while on an inspection tour of the Congo.

On June 30 this year, the last of the United Nations troops withdrew. Its four-year presence in the Congo — military and technical assistance — had cost $435 million. Over 40 per cent of the money had come from the United States.

The Soviet Union refused to pay a penny.

What had the money and the bloodshed bought?

Edmund A. Gullion, who was United States ambassador in Leopoldville through most of the period, said the United Nations effort had:

Prevented a new Korea, spared the Congo from a hot war, helped hold the nation of 14 million people together, and assisted an unprepared nation toward legal government.

It had also, he said, angered the Soviet Union but possibly saved the United Nations from the same fate as the League of Nations.

As the new era opens, this is the situation in the Congo. Tshombe, so recently anathema, has returned from exile and been welcomed by the central government of Premier Cyrille Adoula. Adoula is temporary caretaker of the National government, which may soon be headed by none other than Tshombe. "King" Albert Kalonji of South Kasai is also back from exile. Antoine Gizenga, a leftist leader, still languishes in an island prison in the Congo River but may soon be released to join the central government.

TRIBAL WARS PERSIST

There are tribal wars in the provinces of Leopoldville, Kivu, Katanga and Oriental. The Chinese Communists, from their embassies in neighboring countries — at Brazzaville in the west and Bujumbura in the east, are encouraging leftist forces inside the Congo. There is, however, no cohesion between the uneasy truce and no central direction is possible at the present level of political naivete.

On the more encouraging side, the nation's finances are slowly improving, the Congo army of 35,000 has been strengthened, and the central government has the moral backing of most other African governments.

What of the future?

On the day that the last United Nations troops withdrew, Secretary General U Thant declared:

"The present situation in the Congo, greatly improved though it is compared with July 1960, admittedly makes the Congo's future look none too promising. Great and serious problems persist, which can be dealt with only by wise, imaginative, strong and courageous leadership, effective government, and some measure of support from the people. Failure to overcome present dangers would no doubt bring chaos and ruin."

Gullion said:

"The future for the Congo is murky, but light shows through. There are grounds for hope that it will yet settle down, not in the image of some Western state like Switzerland, but on its own terms, which will constitute progress, even though in the beginning it may occasionally look to Western eyes like stabilized chaos."

The American people have cause to be satisfied with their contribution.

Two Senators Favored Case Resolution

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I have had my attention called to an Appleton Post-Crescent editorial criticizing Democrats in the United States Senate for voting against a resolution by Senator Clifford Case which Senator Case felt was needed to broaden the investigation in the Baker case to include Senators. As a matter of fact, the Case resolution was not necessary. The committee has all the authority it needs right now to make a complete investigation. However, I simply wanted to call your attention to the fact that the two Democrats who represent Wisconsin in the United States Senate did not vote against the Case resolution. Both Senator Proxmire and I voted for it.

Reynolds' Campaign Off to Early Start; He's After the Senior Vote

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—That Gov. Reynolds should indulge a costly television promotion of his candidacy in early July of the campaign season suggests several things to the political community of the state.

First, a not quite obviously, it indicates that the governor is not much worried about financing his second term election appeal. A state-wide television publicity promotion at this stage is unusual. It is so expensive that not even the Republicans, usually pointed at by the Democrats as the big spenders, would consider it.

Second, the incident shows the governor's sure and expert grasp of the techniques of campaigning. In his proud relation of the new health assistance payments act for elderly citizens of limited means and the new law providing property tax concessions for the elderly, he is using material that is virtually impregnable to attack or refutation.

Third, the governor is appealing to a sensitive, attentive and self-conscious element of the electorate that has more power than is often remembered. There are 420,000 residents of Wisconsin over the age of 65 years, by the governor's own careful count. That is a little more than 10 per cent.

It is a larger proportion of the electorate, by a considerable margin, remembering that very young people don't vote and that the oldsters are probably inclined to vote more regularly than the other age groups in the body politic.

GROUP INTEREST

Moreover, as the governor is obviously aware also, the part of the populace that is classified as "old" is one of the few identifiable and big electoral special interest groups remaining in the community, considering state politics, policy and governmental jurisdiction alone — without regard to national affairs.

Incidentally important in the governor's courtship of the elderly is the chance that he can compete more profitably with the Republicans there than in an appeal to any other group interest.

Older people tend to be more conservative and more likely to respond to the Republican Party in normal circumstances. In Wisconsin the heaviest concentrations of the elderly are in the rural counties and districts, which are precisely the centers of strongest Republican election day performance, in the historical perspective.

Not all of the old people are likely to be especially impressed by the modest property tax credits recently granted them, or even the comparatively restrictive benefits held out to them in the new state program of aiding in hospital and medical costs.

But the elderly tend to resent their loneliness, and their neglect, real or fancied, by younger people and the community at large. Chances are that the governor's heavy-handed assurances that he is their friend, and that he is at least in the distant state capital is concerned about them, is a fruitful political exercise.

Loyal Foxes Fans Not Exclusive Club

Editor, Post-Crescent:

"Baseball Fans of Fox Cities." What a disappointment!

I am not a director. I do not work for the club. I am in no way connected with the club.

I am a baseball fan who wishes to express my opinion on the situation here in Appleton with our Foxes. I believe I belong to an exclusive club because I am one of the 300 or so fans who attend most home games. But I may not belong to this club very long. Why? Because this cannot be an exclusive club. The attendance of this club cannot support future major leaguers. Sure, I know everyone can not be as crazy about baseball as I am. But folks, you could come a lot oftener than you do. You go to work, the first thing you talk about is baseball, and in the tavern — baseball, parties, everywhere. Well folks, if nobody buys tickets to go to games, how long are you going to have that subject for conversation. Don't forget our Foxes are major league potential. Each and every one of them, or they would not be here. So you can see major league baseball of the near future for ridiculously low admission prices. Gosh, I like to say "I saw him play in Goodland Field," as I can say now about the many, many major league stars who have already played here. There are too many to try to name them. You pick one each home game then come take in the game in his memory.

Now our 1964 ball club is the greatest group of boys. I say boys, they are all youngsters in their teens or very early twenties. Good fielders, good hitters and good clean cut boys, all of them. Second place, first half season. With some fan support they would have been first. Don't ever think that fans yelling for their favorite doesn't help. They will do even better with 1,000 or more whooping it up for them instead of 300 or 600 fans.

We now have one of the best, if not the best, ball club to represent the Fox Cities we have ever had. Let's back them up! If we lose them (and we will Baltimore is not going to pay out the dough that they are to play for the small attendance we have had). Darn it, they have given us a fine ball club. What have we given them—poor attendance. If we lose this ball club for next year and we will if you don't up the attendance. In years to come it will affect interest in hard ball. Little League, Rec Leagues, Babe Ruth and Legion. Please come when you can. Don't let our home boys lose out because they can't watch pros play anymore. Now I know in years gone by it was said if we had a roof on the grandstand we would come. It's there. Where are those fans? Nights too cold. Well some have, some have not. Not much difference in attendance between cold and hot. So if you want an excuse it's easy to make one. If you want to help you can if you want baseball.

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson

Gov. Scranton says he's happy that Milton Eisenhower will nominate him. Milton, not Ike. Nobody would want to be nominated by a TV commentator.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith says she's in the race to stay. She's against drop-outs—especially from the electoral college.

The GOP platform committee gets to work. It's going to reaffirm and revitalize the 1960 platform if somebody can remember what was in it.

Scranton uses a campaign train to hustle support in Illinois. Goldwater hasn't taken to the stump yet—it's hard to find a reliable wagon master these days.

And there's this cynic who says a politician's greatest asset is his ability.

Lads in the Legislature

Adults are forever complaining about the vagaries of youth, their allergy to study and their hedonistic drives. But now the people in Massachusetts are upset because two high school students have been doing their home work so thoroughly.

Leonard Tagg and Lewis Trout, both 16 years old, are running for state political office. Leonard is trying to become a member of the state legislature; Lewis is running for a spot on the Governor's Council, an elective body supposed to advise the governor. The boys decided to run when their study of the state constitution revealed that there was a loophole in minimum ages for candidates.

The Massachusetts Constitution specifies that candidates running as either Democrats or Republicans must have indicated party affiliation at the time they register to vote. Since the voting age minimum is

Looking Backward

Make Arrest in Post Office Thefts

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 9, 1964.

Hitherto, we have made no allusion to the arrest of L. Strong, a clerk in the Post Office at Appleton, which arrest was made nearly three weeks ago, because it was not deemed in the public interest to do so.

A longer silence might be misinterpreted, misunderstood, and misused, and it is generally known in the County that the arrest has been made and that there is no likelihood that any further discoveries will be made tending to unearth the perpetrators of other robberies which were probably made elsewhere.

Mr. Strong went into the Post Office with almost the universal confidence of the community in his integrity. For a year or more past, numerous small robberies have been committed and much money was lost in the Northern part of the State. Every attempt to detect the perpetrator or perpetrators failed until some two months ago circumstances combined to locate some of the robberies here.

When suspicion was fairly settled, the Postmaster, Mr. George M. Robinson, conferred with the Special Agent and thereafter acted under his directions. The agent at once made the Post Office in this City the object of his special care, and on the 22d ult. brought his labors to a close by arresting Mr. Strong with a package of marked money in his possession.

He was at once taken to Milwaukee and committed in default of bail to take his trial at the September term of the U.S. Circuit Court. The bail was fixed at $5,000 but subsequently reduced to $3,500.

The penalty in case of conviction is imprisonment for not less than 10 years and not more than 20 years.

Inasmuch as the matter will undergo a fair judicial investigation, and the case should not be prejudiced, as well as an account of the fact that by this act a young and interesting family is overwhelmed in distress, we do not deem it proper to go into any of the minor particulars further than to say that the postmaster, in our opinion, did his whole duty in following up the suspicious aroused, and which led to his detection and arrest, and that we hope this sad affair will be forever a warning to all Post Office clerks in Appleton to let other people's letters alone and thus save themselves from life-long infamy and their family and friends from irreparable disgrace.

Recalls 1948 Upset

Eisenhower Optimistic of GOP Chances in November

ABOARD GOP TRAIN (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, recalling Harry S. Truman's 1948 upset victory, says "maybe it can be done again" if the Republican party unites in a vigorous campaign.

Eisenhower talked with newsmen Friday night while on his way to the party convention in San Francisco.

He said the outlook for Truman's election "was so poor that the odds, I believe, were 16 to 1 against him. But he upset the applecart."

The former president, a two-time winner, was in a reminiscent mood as he held an impromptu press conference in one of the three private cars he, Mrs. Eisenhower and their party are traveling in.

Poll Results

Johnson could be turned out of office, although, "as of the moment, all polls show the President far ahead of any possible nominee of ours."

It can be done, Eisenhower said.

"If we have a well-united party carrying the message effectively and decisively, there could be a different picture reflected before the election."

The general was careful to maintain his avowed neutrality in the contest for the GOP Presidential nomination.

"An ex-president has no business taking a position with this or that faction," he said. "His business is to be accessible and available to all of them."

British Tailor is Arrested as Spy

LONDON (AP) — Alfred Burchinsaw, a British tailor who worked at a U.S. Air Force base near Munich, has been arrested on suspicion of spying, the British Foreign Office says.

A spokesman said Friday night Burchinsaw was picked up by American detectives March 31 on suspicion of passing information to a Communist intelligence agency.

The spokesman said Burchinsaw has been held in a Munich prison while German police continue investigations. No trial date has been set.

Russian Pincher Downs Crop-Duster With Vodka Bottle

MOSCOW (AP)—An irate pincher heaved a vodka bottle at a low-flying crop-dusting plane, damaged its wing, forced the pilot to land and beat him up. Local Communist party officials blamed the pilot for the incident.

The pincher was a party big shot.

Reviewing the incident, the government newspaper Izvestia complained that the party official received only a gentle reprimand.

Izvestia said he had been drinking heavily and forced down the plane with the well-aimed bottle after chemical dust drifted into a pot of soup over his campfire.

Goldwater: He said he would accept a plank for strengthened Social Security and "I voted for all the Eisenhower improvements and against all crippling amendments."

Taxes

Scranton: "We must revise federal tax policies to make more revenues available at the state and local levels."

Goldwater: "A Republican administration will construct a fair and equitable tax code, and will return to each state fruitful sources of revenue and even a significant portion of the taxes collected from its people at the national level."

Foreign Affairs

Scranton: "We wish, above all, to preserve the peace of the world and we recognize the role of the United Nations. We would strengthen the United Nations by insisting that nations that do not pay their dues and assessments be deprived of their voting rights and by re-examining the relationship between the General Assembly and the Security Council."

"It is essential that the Republican party pledge itself to continue foreign aid. This program should be directed toward the encouragement of local free enterprises rather than to the propping up of petty elites."

Goldwater: "The Republicans know that strength and the resolve will to use that strength are the surest deterrents to aggression and the surest way to avoid war. Our leadership must bind up the torn and tattered alliances. The NATO community is the first line of defense for the entire free world, but the present administration has allowed NATO to drift into disarray."

Africa Leaders Seek Military Intervention

LONDON (AP) — The Commonwealth summit conference recessed today for private talks that are likely to center on African demands for military force to end white minority rule in Southern Rhodesia.

Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya and President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika-Zanzibar both proposed Friday that a Commonwealth military force intervene in Southern Rhodesia.

Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys was expected to reject both suggestions when the 18 government leaders attending the conference resume formal sessions Monday.

Kenyatta offered to contribute Kenyan troops to help Britain deal with any white settler rebellion that might arise in erasing the Rhodesian problem.

Once jailed for leading Kenya's Mau Mau anti-white terrorists, Kenyatta offered his troops if they could help Southern Rhodesia achieve a one-man one-vote constitution.

Such a constitution would give absolute power to the Africans, who outnumber the 220,000 whites in Southern Rhodesia by more than 10 to 1.

British Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home, aides said, conceded that Britain has some legal rights to intervene militarily in Southern Rhodesia. But, they added, he insisted that no British government could entertain the idea of British troops fighting British subjects.

Reynolds Files For Re-Election

Looks for Tough Fight if GOP Picks Goldwater

MADISON (AP)—Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds filed today for re-election and said his party has an opportunity this campaign "to make a gigantic breakthrough in sweeping away the remnants of reactionary Republican control."

But on the assumption that Sen. Barry Goldwater will head the Republican national ticket, Reynolds said he looks for a "terribly bitter campaign" in Wisconsin.

The governor said that if the GOP nominates Goldwater next week as its presidential candidate, Wisconsin voters will experience a "repeat performance" of the April 7 primary in which Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace opposed Reynolds.

Reynolds won the primary campaign and gained the state's 46 Democratic convention votes for President Johnson.

The governor said Wallace and Goldwater both appeal to extremists.

The nomination of Goldwater would add to the difficulties of the Democratic party campaign in Wisconsin, Reynolds said.

"I'm afraid the Democrats will stay home and won't work because they think Goldwater is a pushover," the governor said. "But he has a more dedicated brand of followers than we've ever seen in Wisconsin — and they all work."

Reynolds said that in his hometown of Green Bay he could envision a thousand Goldwater backers campaigning for their candidate. "I imagine I'll have to work to get 10 people up there to work as hard for Democrats," Reynolds said, "because they think our party is bound to be a winner."

succeeded in keeping out of the rough draft three major planks for which Scranton had pleaded.

And the tentative civil rights plank omitted the declaration: "Scranton urged that the 1964 law—against which Goldwater voted—is constitutional."

Although argument within the committee seemed certain to continue, Scranton hopes of getting a platform that would embarrass Goldwater apparently have been dashed.

Three Planks

Extremism, right-to-work laws and civilian control of nuclear weapons were the subjects of the three planks the Scranton backers couldn't get by the executive committee.

They wanted a repudiation, by name, of the John Birch Society. Goldwater has declined to disown the support of members of that group.

Most of the decrease was in patron meter fees, although patron meters accounted for the largest revenue during the period.

Patron meters accounted for $377,914.17 of the total. The next two largest receipts were for stamp sales, $110,228.93, and permits, $222,131.11.

The dollar value of money orders was $306,784.31. Fees for money orders came to $4,357.50, for a total deposit of $1,128,426.

Money orders and fees are not computed in gross postal receipts.

State Highway Deaths at 498

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The deaths of two men in a collision involving a car and an Illinois National Guard truck towing a heavy gun have raised the Wisconsin highway toll for the year to 498, or 90 more than on this date a year ago.

Eddie Horn, 44, a former Minneapolis resident who recently moved to Shamrock in Jackson County, and Myron Berger, 27, of Melrose, also of Jackson County, were killed Friday afternoon in the collision of their car and a 10-ton Illinois National Guard truck pulling a howitzer on the trip home from Camp Ripley, Minn.

The crash occurred at a Highway 27 intersection at Cataract in northwestern Monroe County. The truck was part of a 40-vehicle convoy.

James W. Ward, 23, of Kenosha, died Friday afternoon in the collision of his car and a truck in Kenosha. Ward was thrown 125 feet from his auto.

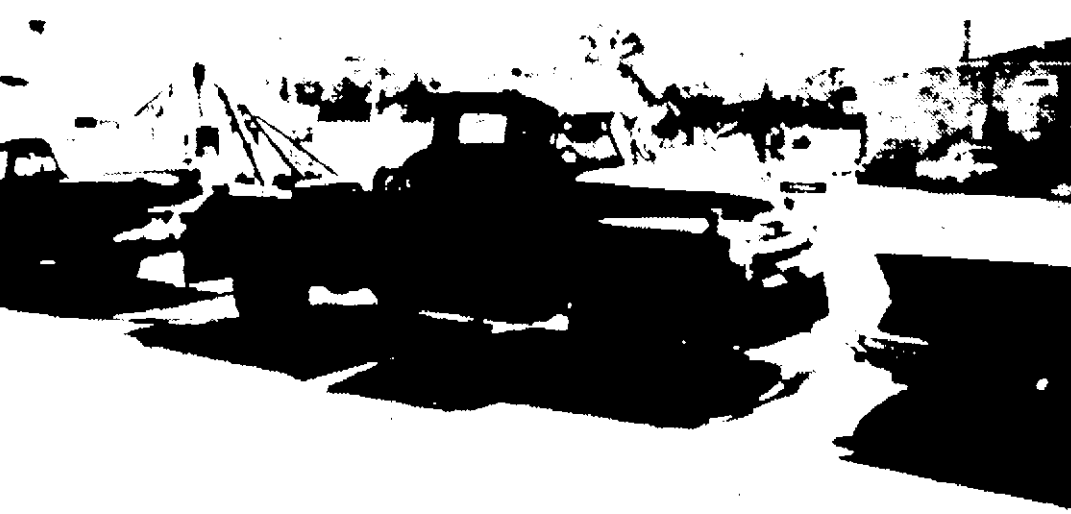

General Tire, Rubber Workers in Agreement; Strike May End Soon

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The United Rubber Workers and General Tire & Rubber Co. reached a contract agreement early today. It is expected to provide a basis for ending a strike of 17,000 production workers.

Details of the agreement with General Tire will not be disclosed until early next week when the contract is signed. It then must go to 3,300 workers in Akron, Ohio, and Waco, Texas, for ratification.

The settlement was arrived at in a 14-hour marathon bargaining session here that ended three hours after the U.R.W. struck the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., another giant in the industry, was not hit by a strike, although it was participating in negotiations.

Automobile Once Named Motorcycle

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Because I have been delving into the history of the automobile I am up-to-date in the subject and I see no reason why I should not share my new knowledge.

Did you know, for example, that when the Duryea brothers invented an automobile (in 1883), there was no name for the new contrivance except "horseless carriage?"

In 1885, the Chicago Times-Herald thought the word "horseless" was a little silly because, after all, why use the name of a horse when there was no horse involved in the new gasoline buggy? The newspaper sponsored a contest to find a better monicker; the prize for the best name was $500.

There were thousands of entries. Most of them were variations of the words "buggy," "wagon," "carriage," and "motor." There were repetitions, of course, and even the winning name was submitted by three different people. The $500 was divided between them.

The winning title? Motorcycle!

Of course it was a failure and was soon dropped.

Then, apparently just because it was a better word, the French name for the new gadget came into general use in 1890. By 1897, everyone was using the French term — automobile — which is a good one.

If you simply haven't thought about it, the word obviously means self-moving.

These days we tend to use the word "car" to designate the automobile and I am not certain why we do it except that it is easier to say. I presume it is a telescoped version of the word "carriage" or perhaps "cart." Agree?

The first person to take out automobile insurance was one Gilbert Loomis, a mechanic from Westfield, Mass. The premium was $7.50 for $1,000 worth of liability. The year was 1897.

New York's state licenses for motor vehicles in 1901 pleased almost everybody because the sale of them that first year added nearly a whole $1,000 to the state treasury. (Last year, New York's motor vehicle licenses added nearly a whole $125,219,000 more to its treasury).

Louis Chevrolet for whom the automobile is named came from Switzerland to the United States in 1900 to try to promote a wine pump which he had invented. He stayed to get into the automobile business.

Henry Leland, who formed the Cadillac Motor Car Company and later the Lincoln Motor Car Company, won his first fame by inventing the mechanical hair clipper.

Please, gentle reader, get off of my back! Last week I carefully pointed out that there had been more than 2,200 different makes of automobiles. Then, boldy, I listed some of the names with which I thought you might be familiar. Since then, dear reader you have been leaning on me, asking "how about the Essex? How about the Hupmobile?" How about the this and how about the that?

Honestly, I couldn't list all 2,200 makes!

But here are some more, and I'll bet you have forgotten them: The A.B.C. was manufactured from 1904 to 1911; who remembers it? Cars by the same name were manufactured once more in 1922 and again in 1933, but they're passed on now for sure.

Remember the Alamo? It was produced for only one year — 1902. There were 33 known automobiles with the word "American" in them. Among them: The American Chocolate, American Beauty, American Bantam, American Populaire and American Southern.

The Apple was the name of a car manufactured in 1900 and again in 1915 and 1916. And there was an Appleton, too, made in 1922. And there was an Auto-Go made in 1900 though I think the name was a poor choice, just as I think about Auto-horse of 1917-1921.

There was a Bacon made in 1905, a Barley (1905-1924), a Bartholomew (1901-1920), a Ben Hur in 1917, a Biddle (1915-1920), a Pest (1900), a Billy (1910), a Binney-Burnham in 1902, a Bird in 1896, a Bluffelumber in 1901. There was also a Brown (1898), a Black (1891), a Black Crow (1907), a Blue Streak (1908) and other colors, too.

But the funniest names of them all are these, I think: The Poo (1948), the Brew-Itcher (1904-1905), the Bug (1914), the Burzmobile (1917), the Country Club (1904), the Creek (1908), the Dodo (1909), the Eastern Dairies (1925), the Famous (1908), the Gadabout (1914-1916), the Gyroscope (1908), the Gastricure (1905), the Horsey Horseless Carriage (1899), the Keratene Surrey (1900), the Irvington Izzer (1910), the Kidney (1910), the K-R-I-T (1903), the Moon (1905-1931), the Mor-Power (1921), the Pak-Age-Kar (1925), the Okay (1907), the Old Reliable (1928), the Scootmobile, (1947), the Seven-Little-Buffaloes (1906), the Wisconsin (1910-1911) and the U.S. Long Distance (1906-1904).

Attorney Declines Frinzi Ballot Offer

Richard J. Steffens, Menasha, Rejects Lieutenant Governor Spot

BY MIKE PETRICK
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA—City Atty. Richard J. Steffens said Friday night he has declined an offer from Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dominic H. Frinzi to run for lieutenant governor as Frinzi's running mate.

The announcement was made at a meeting between Frinzi, Steffens and reporters in Steffens' office, following opening of a Frinzi-for-Governor campaign headquarters here. Steffens, who will direct the Frinzi effort in the Fox Cities area, said he wanted to devote his time to running the local headquarters.

Personal Contact

Frinzi clarified his Thursday statement promising that, if he is elected, construction of a bridge across Little Lake Butte des Morts would begin next year. "The State Highway Department could certainly get moving and stop wasting time making and filing reports and surveys on the matter," he said.

He said his approach to an accelerated bridge program would include personal contacts with federal officials, if necessary, to speed up the project. "Governors in other states have seen that such projects are speeded up. Why can't this be done in Wisconsin?" he asked.

Frinzi called the Fox Valley "the fastest growing community north of Milwaukee and the most neglected area north or south of Milwaukee." Residents of the area "pay plenty of state taxes and should get something more than promises," he said.

In other statements, Frinzi said he is studying the proposal to lower the minimum clearance height on bridge spans across navigable waters to 25 feet, and would comment on the plan at a later date.

Attacked Gov. John W. Reynolds for wasting time and money on the Milwaukee John Doe investigation, saying quicker and less expensive results could have been obtained by a Grand Jury investigation.

Proposed a youth development plan for Wisconsin consisting of science, conservation and cultural projects which he said would combat juvenile delinquency.

Said the solution to state civil rights problems lies in educating the public.

Advocated more stringent state statutes on the control of pornography.

Government Training

Called for a program to train governmental officials in procedure of government, the plan to consist of "refresher and advanced courses" taught by senior government officials and university instructors.

Stated he is "legally and morally bound" to a taxation program based on the "ability to pay" formula, and that he is strongly opposed to any state sales tax.

The Menasha Frinzi quarters is the fourth in the state. Others are in Milwaukee, Kenosha, and Fond du Lac. Units will be set up in Sheboygan, Green Bay, Waukesha and Wausau within a week.

Frinzi left Menasha Friday night for Eagle River, where he will address a meeting of the Committee on Political Education. He is seeking the Democratic Party nod in the September primary, where he will face Gov. Reynolds.

Guns Fired

Dahlke said the gun fired again, and he thought the round struck her in the abdomen. "She kept screaming, and I shot her. The gun was empty. I reloaded and fired another six rounds into my wife. I just sat there. It might have been five minutes or an hour."

Dahlke then described placing the body in the trunk, getting his son Eric from a theater in Sparks, eating, selling the firearm, receiving money from his parents in Oshkosh and driving east.

He said he told his son he was never going to see his mother again. Dahlke added that he sold the gun in the name of Jerry Kern. Kern had lived with Mrs. Dahlke.

Described Burial

Dahlke then described burying the body in the basement of his step-father's Oshkosh home. He said he then left Oshkosh and drove to the Presidio Army base at San Francisco, his next duty station. He is a dental technician.

State Closes Case Of Oshkosh Man Accused of Slaying

Douglas Dahlke Statement Tells Of Relationship With Victim

SPECIAL TO THE POST-CRESCENT

RENO — Reading of a 101-page statement by accused slayer Douglas A. Dahlke ended the crime near Stead Air Force Base north of here because he felt a military or federal trial would reduce publicity.

A prosecution attorney played the part of Washoe County Dist. Atty. William K. Raggio in asking questions while the other attorney read Dahlke's answers in the statements.

The lengthy statement was given to Raggio in Reno Feb. 11 and was read and signed by Dahlke Feb. 20. In the statement, the defendant admitted and described the crime and told of his relationship with his wife Gloria from the time they were sweethearts at Oshkosh High School.

Dahlke said his wife had borne him a child out of wedlock while they were still in high school and that his wife was again pregnant at the time they were married in 1967.

Describes Military Service

He told of his Army service including two years in Germany and of his Air Force experience.

Dahlke described periods of separation he and his wife had while he was in the military, saying she left one time to "find herself." He also said she had a frequent visitor known only to him as Joe, whom he believed was a "father-figure."

He described a time in Milwaukee when he attended college for one year, then was forced to drop school because of grades.

Dahlke said that at one time, his wife voluntarily went to a mental institution but left after a few days. He said he then had to commit her and she remained 41 days.

Filed For Divorce

Dahlke said his wife had filed for divorce in 1960 in Oshkosh, but that they were able to reconcile.

He said his wife refused to send any of his clothes or a good photo of their son while he was in Germany. He said he later stopped sending her money.

In Dahlke's Feb. 11 statement, he elaborated on the Oct. 12 shooting itself. He said he and his wife had driven east of Sparks, a town near here, and had parked along the road to talk.

He said she noticed the revolver under the seat and asked about it. Dahlke said he showed her that it was loaded and said she grabbed it and that as he took it back, it discharged sending a bullet through his right index finger and into the back seat.

Gun Fired

Dahlke said the gun fired again, and he thought the round struck her in the abdomen. "She kept screaming, and I shot her. The gun was empty. I reloaded and fired another six rounds into my wife. I just sat there. It might have been five minutes or an hour."

Dahlke then described placing the body in the trunk, getting his son Eric from a theater in Sparks, eating, selling the firearm, receiving money from his parents in Oshkosh and driving east.

He said he told his son he was never going to see his mother again. Dahlke added that he sold the gun in the name of Jerry Kern. Kern had lived with Mrs. Dahlke.

Described Burial

Dahlke then described burying the body in the basement of his step-father's Oshkosh home. He said he then left Oshkosh and drove to the Presidio Army base at San Francisco, his next duty station. He is a dental technician.

Renk 'Amazed' By Support For Goldwater

Sets Talks With Eisenhower and Everett Dirksen

Frinzi opened a campaign headquarters in Menasha, then made a tour of Fox River Valley communities. He said at an Oshkosh press conference that Gen. George Thompson should "quit bickering and behave in a way befitting lawyers."

Earlier in the day, Reynolds had been critical of Thompson's handling of the Milwaukee investigation.

Short Memory

Frinzi said Reynolds had a short memory since it was Reynolds who initiated the original John Doe in Milwaukee when he was attorney general.

Frinzi said that Reynolds should have started a grand jury hearing instead of a John Doe, and also said a grand jury hearing should be started now "if the governor is sincere."

He added that the John Doe hearings in Milwaukee and Madison were "political gimmicks."

Frinzi said he had asked Menasha City Atty. Richard J. Steffens to run on a ticket with him as a candidate for lieutenant governor. Steffens said he would not seek the office but would continue on the Frinzi committee.
